To whom it may concern,

We have no hesitancy whatsoever in recommending that you consider AmericanBio for your contract manufacturing needs. Bluejay Diagnostics was engaged with AmericanBio throughout the summer of 2017 investigating the potential for AmericanBio to assemble Bluejay's new in vitro medical device.

As potential customers, our experience with the team at AmericanBio was second to none. They worked diligently to understand our needs and were never afraid to challenge our assumptions, which we greatly valued. We quickly determined that AmericanBio was more than capable of meeting our requirements in terms of scope and scalability. Throughout the process we established great relationships that facilitated Bluejay's trust in AmericanBio as a potential world-class partner. We also had the privilege of touring their facilities and meeting their senior leadership team. During every point of contact we found the AmericanBio Team to be open and transparent.

It is with great enthusiasm that I recommend you consider AmericanBIO for your contract manufacturing needs.

Sincerely,
